Poker

Poker is a card game, in which different gamblers line up against each other. Goal is the highest possible card value. There is the possibility of "bluffing" with bad cards. Bluffing allows one gambler to make another gambler believe through play behaviour that he/she is holding a good hand and hopes that the other gambler will give up because of this. By bluffing and close observation of the others, the gamblers can create a small advantage, but chance also prevails in poker!

Due to the increasing popularity of poker, the fact that it is gambling is often underplayed!
